Mission

Energy Science & Technology Conference (ESTC) is a movement of thought leaders working together for energy independence through a network of visionaries, inventors, scientists, academics, hobbyists, laymen, and authentic grassroots supporters.

To enable this transition to true energy independence, it requires an evolutionary transformation in the very paradigm of how mankind looks at energy and this requires a critical mass of people all across the world to hold this common vision.

ESTC provides the platform through which the current paradigm of energy physics is being shaken to its core by actual demonstrations of technologies that overturn the antiquated beliefs that have allowed us to be kept in bondage by the purveyors of consumable energy products.

The knowledge gained at ESTC is key to the building of a sustainable world rooted in the proven physics of abundance, which will allow us to be free and independent. The opportunity to be empowered by this is offered to those who have an openness to learn a better way.

WHY TESLACOIN?

Teslacoin is a digital currency pushing towards a decentralized and sustainable world. Supporting Free Energy and Renewable Energy projects.

It's so simple. Cultural advancement has ceased because the ruling class has no incentive to progress and all they do is to increase taxes, rents, or other levies upon the producers of wealth.

We come then to the following conclusion: When cultural advance has thus been arrested, it can be renewed only by tapping some new source of energy and by harnessing it in sufficient magnitude to burst asunder the social system which binds it. Join the community

That is why TeslaCoin is needed.

GRAVITY CONTROL WITH PRESENT TECHNOLOGY

The Doomsday Clock is a symbolic measure of humanity's proximity to nuclear annihilation. On the 25th of January, 2018, the Bulletin of the Atomic Scientists issued a statement saying, "It is two minutes to midnight," a level of danger not seen since the detonation of the first hydrogen bomb in 1954. But nuclear weapons are not the only mortal threat we face: global warming, environmental pollution, and the increasing scarcity of land, water, food and resources have all joined hands in a constricting circle, inflaming economic, political, and religious conflicts that are pushing humanity, and all life on this planet, ever closer to the brink.

Unless some sort of world-transforming technology should appear that would stop the Doomsday Clock in its tracks.

Gravity control is just such a technology, and it is not a dream: It is here and now, accessible with low energy, at prices that put it within the reach of all, not just the billionaire class.

Unless some sort of world-transforming technology should appear that would ## stop the Doomsday Clock in its tracks

By DAVID ALZOFON

In this lecture you will hear how a maverick aerospace physicist invented it in the late 1970s and successfully tested it in 1994. Using visualizable, mainstream physics, we will describe how it works and why, as we forecast the Star Trek civilization it will create within a generation. We will show why Big Oil will be among the first to adopt gravity control, which will in turn remove resistance to all forms of alternative energy. Also shown will be the uncanny connections between the technology and often-described features of UFO propulsion.

Things might be worse—we might not have a choice between doomsday and the stars. Luckily, we do have a choice. But we must decide soon, which makes this a lecture no-one can afford to miss.

A pair of hands is shown holding a small, intricate golden sphere that is a complex mechanical structure, possibly a watch movement or a micro-robot. The hands are positioned over a larger, golden watch movement, which is a complex assembly of gears and plates. The background is a golden, textured surface with faint, embossed patterns. The overall color scheme is warm and golden, suggesting precision, craftsmanship, and innovation.

The Linchpin to Unprecedented Change and the Emergence of a New Era

By John Petersen

This planet and its major denizens are in the middle of the most significant upheaval and transition in the history of the earth and humankind.

The change is being driven by a combination of cycles – some many thousands of years long – that are converging together to guarantee that the world that emerges out of the other side of this extraordinary shift will be made up of capabilities and perspectives that make little sense from in the context of the present.

One only has to casually look around at the accelerating erosion of venerable institutions like politics, international relations, and privacy, the press, government, agriculture, finance, transportation, veracity, work, families and sex roles, etc. to know that the old reality is imploding . . . and at the same time, similar revolutions are exploding in consciousness, awareness of extraterrestrial life, the composition of DNA and attendant “magical” capabilities, life extension, velocity and ubiquity of information transfer, among others.

One of the obvious linchpins in the platform that will support the emergence of the new world is certainly energy . . . and particularly “new energy”. But the amazing advances being made in the new energy arena, though structurally key to the new future, are truly partners in a larger platoon of converging revolutions that will redesign this place and who we are . . . probably within the next two to three decades.

It’s a no-kidding paradigm shift – the essential way in which we literally make sense of this reality is undergoing a major overhaul. One way to look at it is through the lens of the four keystones upon which all of human activity is built: Energy, Environment, Tools and Outlook.

The environment, writ-large, constrains or enhances the options available for human development. Living in Nome, Miami, Johannesburg and New Delhi are four really different things, shaped by both climate, culture and economy. You can do things in each place that are impossible in the others.

The global environment is changing quickly. It’s going to get cold. Soon. The internet has produced an unprecedented revolution in how humans communicate . . . and the metabolism of the whole system.

emergence

One's outlook, or perspective, the derivative of all previous experiences, animates and enables the options that seem to be available at each location. New understandings of history (who we have been), the larger context in which we and other non-human beings live (who we are), entheogen-enhanced exposure to the larger reality in which we live (what this all is), and powerful new images of possible new worlds (who we might become), are all setting the stage for the emergent new human.

Our outlook determines how we develop and use tools – the increasingly amazing technologies that expand basic human capabilities for good and bad. Blockchain, genetic engineering, 3D manufacturing, Internet 3.0, scalar energy, plasma systems, electric everything, and many, many more are the force multipliers that will paint the new world around us.

And none of it works without energy – regardless of where and how it is generated. The cost and availability of energy are the most significant modulators (and lubricants) of human activity and opportunity. Options and lives expand when energy becomes cheaper and more ubiquitous.

The many moving parts in this unfathomably complex reality in which we live seem all to be moving toward and contributing to a dramatic new world. Ancient texts and present-day channels suggest it will be a period of thousands of years of peace – an extraordinary new era.

We each are therefore contributing to and shaping the emergence of an unprecedented new world. Amazing possibilities and opportunities abound.

ERIC DOLLARD

Eric Dollard & EPD Laboratories, Inc. Building an Advanced Seismic Warning System 2.0

WARNING! SECONDS OR HOURS

EARTH SIGNAL RECEIVING PROJECT RESTORING REALITY IN THE ENGINEERING WORLD

Eric Dollard has improved upon the work of Tesla and Alexanderson in this science and has actually build a full scale working model that demonstrates the principles. The primary application was using this electrostatic antenna system to listen to the Earth signals in order to forecast major earthquakes 24-48 hours ahead of time! The best that conventional science can give us is 30 to 60 seconds, which pales in comparison.

THEY'VE COME A LONG WAY

Eric Dollard & EPD Laboratories have come a LONG WAY in the last 14 months since the last Indiegogo campaign. $10,000 secured the bond and the other $16,000 accomplished over $100,000 worth of work in labor, parts, glom, etc...

At that time, only one antenna system was discussed, but in reality, Eric and Justin have 2 large antenna setups – always underpromising and overdelivering.

They have accumulated a massive amount of glom (free stuff) such as insulators, cross arms, miles and miles of wire, etc. They still need more, but this is what they have been doing out in the desert.

Inside the lab, John Polakowski has been helping Eric work on the analog network, which is an advanced system of coils and capacitors that relate to the extraluminal transmission of signals – that means there is no time delay between the signals at any point in the system and this goes beyond Einstein's "light speed limit". Technically, it is not faster than light since there is no speed – it is instantaneous.

Once the antenna network is complete, Eric Dollard will be able to perform MANY different Tesla transmission types of experiments as the seismic application is one one part of the project.

BUILDING ALMOST PAID OFF!

There have been numerous fundraising campaigns and they have successfully raise enough funds to nearly pay off the building. The balance is currently less than $3950 and once this is out of the way, the monthly operating expenses are very low for day to day operations. Please consider making a tax-deductible donation to pay off the lab at <http://ericpdollard.com> - the donation information is in the right column. Any support is greatly appreciated!

MUSICAL SEISMOGRAPH

WHAT IS THE ADVANCED SEISMIC WARNING SYSTEM?

And why it's completely unique!

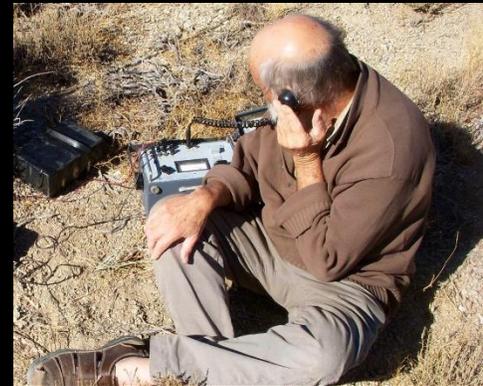

The system utilizes advanced radio techniques; seismic monitoring is achieved through listening to the electrical signals, or "sounds", produced by earth's tectonic activity. It's possible to observe the activity both visually and through literally listening to the sounds, exactly like a radio!

Seismograph output tones that will eventually be tuned to the Pythagorean scale. If you thought 432 Hz was the musical note of A that would be in resonance with the natural world, well, the truth is you've been misled. The truth is that the Pythagorean scale is the one that is truly in harmony with natural ratios.

This is like tuning in to the earth's soundtrack.

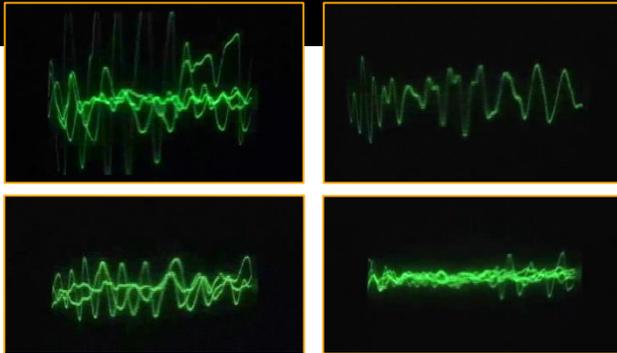

The melody becomes dramatic when the earth is getting ready for an upheaval! Whilst the system was operating more than several disasters were pre-detected by the system, including the massive Japan Earthquake that struck Fukushima and resulted in a nuclear meltdown!

The advanced seismic warning system that was built by Eric Dollard in Landers, California was the most advanced earthquake forecasting system ever developed or probably even imagined.

It could predict earthquakes 6.0 and above 24-72 hours ahead of time, which is far beyond anything our own government or military has ever achieved (publicly that is.) After it was closed, Eric has been working to rebuild the basic system, but this time on protected land where nobody can stop the progress.

SIZING THINGS UP!

The chart (below) shows electrical activity (in black) versus the mechanical seismic event (in red) and it shows very clearly there is now a successfully engineered way to predict earthquakes hours and days in advance from electrical activity

He has been accomplishing this with a low budget based on donations and “glom”, which is free stuff found around the desert, junkyards or electrical surplus places. This has been ongoing for a few years now and the progress has been incredible including have an entire mine dedicated with three seismic transducers (seismographs) at the disposal of EPD Laboratories, Inc!

The signals are very low strength and it is an amazing challenge to amplify these – especially if the goal is to do it all with analog components. Of course being that Eric Dollard is the modern-day Tesla, he is doing it Tesla style.

EVOLUTION OF THE ELECTRICAL UTILITY FROM EDISON UP TO THE PRESENT

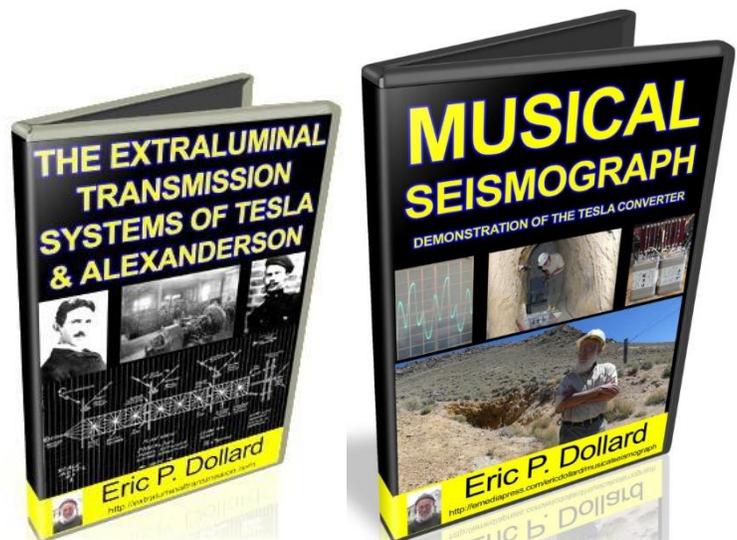

Eric Dollard is an Electrical Engineer who is a “living legend” in the field of electrical research. He is considered by many to be the most knowledgeable expert alive today on the true nature of electricity. Author of the landmark mathematical papers Symbolic Representation of Alternating Electric Waves and Symbolic Representation of the Generalized Electric Wave, Eric shows how all electric phenomena can be mathematically measured and engineered WITHOUT using calculus or “Maxwell’s Equations.” Author of Condensed Intro to Tesla Transformers and Theory of Wireless Power, he is also the only person since Tesla’s death to successfully build a real Magnifying Transmitter. His last three conference presentations are Four Quadrant Representation of Electricity, The Extraluminal Transmission Systems of Tesla & Alexanderson & The Power of the Aether as Related to Music and Electricity. His last presentation was The Musical Seismograph.

Paramahansa Tewari,

author, inventor, and retired Executive Director (Nuclear Projects) of the Nuclear Power Corporation of India (NPCIL), passed away on November 27, 2017, in his hometown region close to Varanasi, Uttar Pradesh. Mr. Tewari, who was 80, is survived by his wife, and three children.

A B.Sc. Engineering graduate from Benares Hindu University, he had a career over four decades with NPCIL. His pioneering contributions, however, extend beyond his professional career. He is the author of a revolutionary theory in physics, the Space Vortex Theory (SVT), and a number of books on the same, that won early commendation by Nobel Laureates in physics. His theory led him to invent the Tewari Reactionless Generator (T-RLG), a high-efficiency electrical generator.

Mr. Tewari's son, Anupam Tewari, will be presenting on his father's work in hopes that it will raise awareness about the T-RLG so that it will not fall into obscurity. The goal is to bring it into commercial production and it is one of the most well-known, high-efficiency devices ever built.

REACTIONLESS GENERATOR

Abstract: Structural relation between the vacuum space and the electron

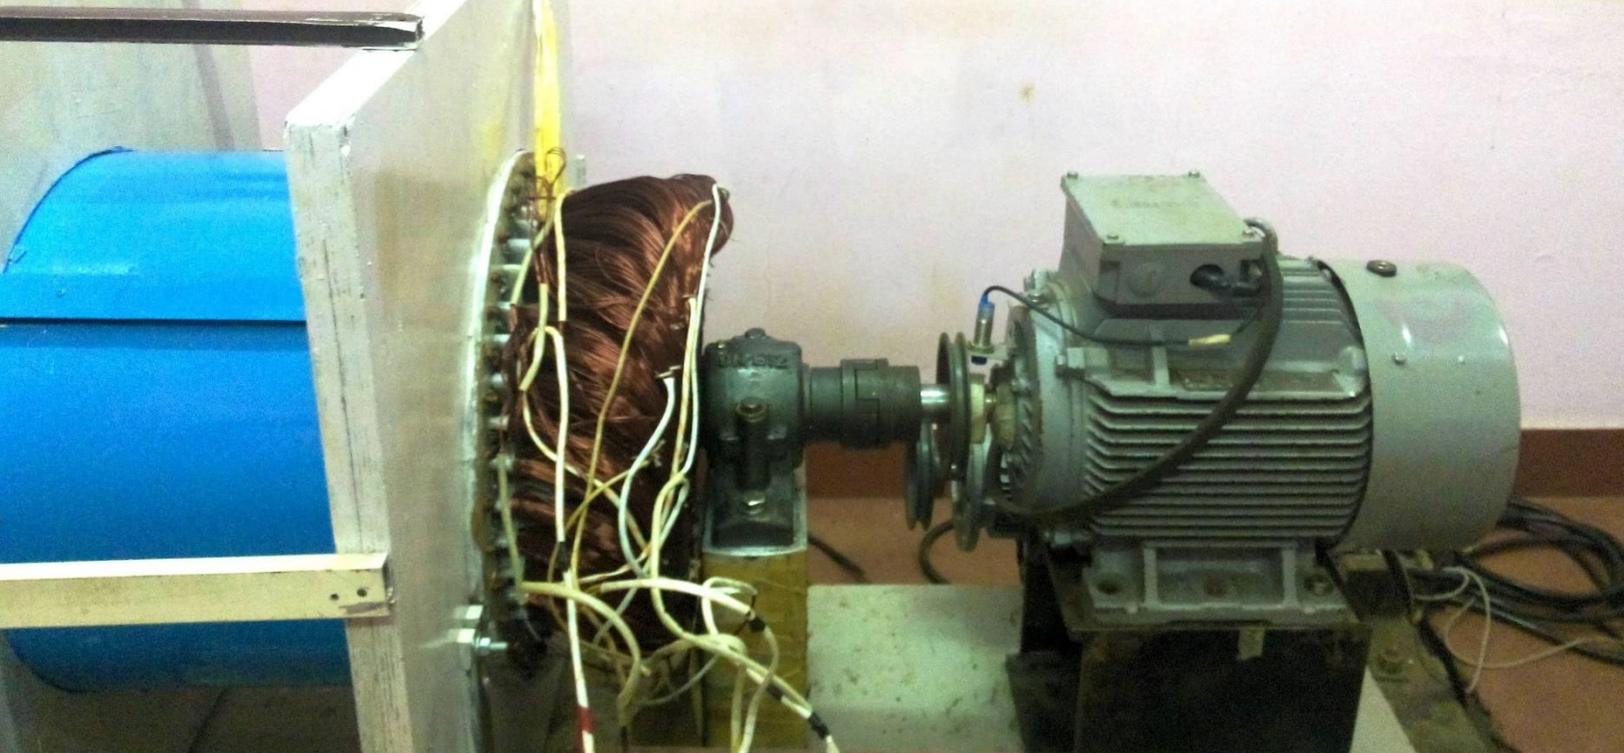

This paper presents a formulation of Absolute Principles for vacuum-space that enable revealing the process of creation of a stable electron and its known properties of mass and charge. Fundamental equations on the electron's charge and mass are derived from first principles from the vacuum vortex of the electron's structure. Also, generation of electrostatic, electromagnetic, and gravitational fields are shown to arise from the vacuum-vortex structure of the electron. The electron and positron have been pinpointed to be the fundamental particles of matter. Coulomb's equation for electrical attraction, dielectric and permeability constants for vacuum, gravitational constant, angular momentum, and magnetic moment for the electron are derived from the charge and mass equations of the electron. It is shown that the mass and charge equations of the electron are applicable for all stable particles, atoms, and even cosmic bodies such as the planets, sun, and galaxies. Kepler's laws are derived from the vacuum space vortex causing axial rotation of the Sun and orbital rotation of the planets. The Earth and the planets with axial rotation are shown to be enclosed by their respective vacuum space vortices that cause gravity field on their surfaces, axial rotation, and generating surface charge. Their masses too can be derived from the tangential vacuum velocity field on their surfaces. The vacuum space vortices, spreading far beyond Pluto in the solar planetary plane, and also those enclosing the galaxy core and rotating the stars, are mistaken as dark matter, presently. The spin of the galaxy core is calculated to be at the velocity of light, causing creation of matter continuously, starting with electrons/positrons and assembling into hydrogen and other atoms. By creation of the electron and its fields and properties from the vacuum space vortex, it is proved that the primary source of cosmic energy in the universe is the dynamic state of the vacuum space vortices. The universe, originally, is a sphere of vacuum space, before creation of matter and fields, existing within an infinite void of nothingness. The radius of the vacuum space sphere has to be a minimum of  $3.3 \times 10^{31}$  cm so as to retain the created matter within the universal boundary of the vacuum and nothingness (void). The universe has only two constants: velocity of light relative to the vacuum space  $c$  and electron radius  $r_e$ . The ratio  $c/r_e$  is the limiting velocity gradient in vacuum vortex circulation, at which the vacuum's flow breaks down into stable electrons and positrons.

Invention of High-Efficiency Tewari RLG Generator

Conventional electrical generators operating on Faraday's law of voltage induction with relative motion between conductors and magnetic fields have limitations on the efficiency of power generated. These machines, driven by prime movers cannot exceed a 100% limit of efficiency. Such a limit is applicable as per the laws of mechanics and thermodynamics as well, obeying the law of conservation of energy (LCE). In addition to these laws, electrical generators are governed also by Lenz's law, considered equivalent to LCE.

Experiments performed by Paramahansa Tewari, with different configurations of magnetic fields and armature conductors — an entirely new system compared to the current generators' magnetic and electric circuits — led to a new invention by him, where counter reaction on the prime mover, as per Lenz's law, is substantially reduced, thus raising the efficiency close to 200%. In this finding, within the system of the reduced reaction generator, LCE is certainly violated.

Explanation to this effect is based on another related paper (Space Is The Only Reality, Paramahansa Tewari; International Conference on Space-Time Absoluteness; Genoa, 8-11 July 1982) on the true nature of electric current. Tewari's theory (Space Vortex Theory) starts with the structural relationship between the electron and the absolute vacuum. The creation of electron is shown to be from the limiting circulation of the vacuum that breaks down and creates stable electrons and positrons as fundamental vacuum- vortices. New relations on electron mass and charge, derived from the vacuum vortex structure, conform to the experimentally obtained quantities. The vacuum is hypothesized to be a mass-less, continuous, incompressible fluid.

These vacuum vortices are created and assembled with their structural fields into neutrons, protons, nucleons and atomic vortices, within stars and galactic centers, in a continuous process of creation.

In conductors, the atomic vortex traps electron vortices, and the atoms remain neutral. In the generator's armature conductor, interacted by the changing magnetic field, orbital electrons of the atoms are stripped off and pushed to the negative terminal, thus making the other terminal positive. When the output switch of the generator is closed, the positive terminal of the generator pulls electrons from the neutral atoms of the external circuit, thus maintaining a flow of current. It is born out of the experimental results of the over-unity-efficiency generator that the force between co-linear elements of the current are attractive, not repulsive. This fact is also supported by the late Prof. Stefan Marinov (The Biot-Savart Law is wrong; International Conference on Space-Time Absoluteness, Genoa, 8-11 July, 1982.)

In a generator on load, the load current in the external circuit has no interaction with any magnetic field. But in the armature conductors within the generator, magnetic field cuts the current carrying conductors, thus creating torque opposite to the prime mover torque, as per Lenz's law. A solution to this is to divert the magnetic field through a special circuit, thereby bypassing the Lenz's reaction partially, if not fully, through nullification.

Efficiency as high as 230% have been measured with over-unity-efficiency system of generator models. Materials required for this new technology are identical to conventional generators.

There is no bar on the ratings of this machine. To start with, generators in the range of 100kW, 500kW, 1,000kW, with efficiency close to 200% are feasible.

John Bedini's

Missing 1984 Presentation Surfaces!

REVEALED: The secret to the T. Henry Moray crystal is revealed and so is the timing method for John Bedini's 1984 Free Energy Generator.

“THE CRYSTAL”

T. Henry Moray was known as having one of the most profound free energy devices that produced massive amounts of "overunity." The key to making his system work was a crystal that Moray worked with that was referred to as a "Swedish Stone." When Moray was on a mission in Sweden for his Mormon Church in 1912, he was researching crystal radios and was looking for minerals that could work just as well or better than the galena crystal. Claims for what this stone was appears to have been speculation but somehow, John Bedini managed to replicate it. This crystal is actually the secret behind Bedini's "Ionic Line Amps".

John did a famous demo with these at an audio show in the early 1980's - he would play a record or CD into his pre-amp, which fed a larger high power amp that powered some high end speakers with high volume. He then disconnected the large speaker cables and put one of these amps at the output of the amp and another at the input of the speakers. He then connected both of those ionic line amps with tiny 30 gauge wire. Now anyone that knows even the smallest bit about stereos knows that if you crank up the stereo with this small fine wire that it will probably disintegrate them with that much wattage. However, as John was often doing the "impossible," it worked perfectly!

How?

John said that the wires were of course too small to carry that signal and the wires acted more as a guide - while the real power was moving through "hyperspace" or what is also known as "counterspace" from transmitter to receiver.

JOHN BEDINI INTRODUCING PETER LINDEMANN TO EXPLAIN HIS LOW DRAG GENERATOR METHOD

Your about to learn what the formula is, how to bake it and what kind of circuit to put it in to experiment with it!

Then, John goes into his 1984 Free Energy Generator

and why people have had trouble replicating it and it is primarily the timing, which most people have not been able to perfect. John then introduces Peter Lindemann as the developer of a low drag generator methodology.

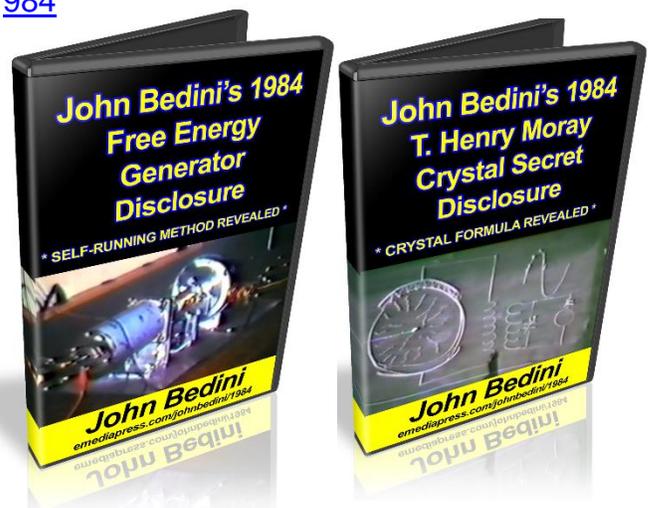

It ends with John giving a demonstration of a pocket size 1984 Free Energy Generator that runs itself and keeps its batteries topped up. The crowd stands up to see it so the video camera couldn't see it running, but you do get all the full schematic posted on the chalkboard with no details left out. John really wanted everyone to get it!

The entire presentation is around 1 hour 20 minutes, but it will be offered in two parts because the material covered is two separate topics. The first one to be released will be about 25 minutes and goes into detail on a topic that was considered one of the holy grails of free energy, which is on the T. Henry Moray Crystal. The second one is about 45 minutes and goes into the 1984 Free Energy Generator as mentioned above.

Although the videos are relatively short, they are jam packed with amazing information that John rarely talked about in such candid detail. If you want to see John Bedini discuss a couple of free energy methods in such a straight up manner, this is required viewing.

THE BEST SHELTER ON THIS PLANET

REFLECTIVE

With a new synthetic down micro-fiber insulation our composite super-fabrics reflect and retain heat better than ever and even dampen outside noise.

RECORD SETUP OF 22 SECONDS

With practice one person can set up our shelters very quickly. Setting stakes, lines and zipping in the floor will take another couple of minutes.

INSULATED

Our products utilize the most advanced NASA inspired technologies and patented composite fabric coatings to reflect the heat of the sun and retain warmth when it gets cold.

WIND RESISTANT

In a recent demonstration our shelters survived sustained winds of over 100MPH. Our teams personal experience ranges from no wind to more than 50 MPH sustained winds.

SERPS Demo COP 47.9 (4790%) The Secret of Tesla's Power Magnification by Jim Murray & Paul Babcock

Fundamentals of the Transforming Generator by Jim Murray

This astounding machine demonstrates many principles that are not understood by conventional science. It rotates but creates a square wave output, with positive feedback – it speeds up to self-destruct speeds, which you normally only see in science fiction movies but this is the real thing, it can light mercury vapor lamps at 200-300% more lumens per watt among other mind-bending feats! For the first time ever, Jim Murray discloses the inner workings of this machine to the public and even describes how someone can replicate it by modifying an off the shelf motor.

Jim Murray

Jim Murray is a professional Engineer, entrepreneur, inventor, and research scientist. His primary field of interest has been in novel Power Systems, and understanding the many, under-appreciated aspects Nikola Tesla's work. He is one of the few inventors in history to receive a US Patent on a "low drag" electrical generator, based on the principle of resonance. Jim is the inventor of the SERPS technology, which showed almost 50 times more energy out than the net draw from a transformer at our 2014 conference. His presentations from the last four conferences are Tesla's Hidden Discoveries, The Secret of Tesla's Power Magnification, The Dynaflux Concept & The Fundamentals of the Transforming Generator.

“The first philosophy (Metaphysics) is universal and is exclusively concerned with primary substance...” ~ Aristotle (340BC)

Aether

The Unifying Medium that Connects All Things

“According to the general theory of relativity, space without ether is unthinkable; for in such space there not only would be no propagation of light, but also no possibility of existence for standards of space and time (measuring-rods and clocks), nor therefore any space- time intervals in the physical sense.” ~Albert Einstein

Aether, the primary substance, has been of interest to natural philosophers for many ages.

To prevent confusion from the chemical ether, it will be spelled Aether, which is a tribute to the ancient spelling that refers to the “upper air” that the ancient Olympians were thought to breathe.

Everything is fundamentally composed of and interacts with the Aether in one way or another. And, it is the unifying medium that connects all things.

The Earth is submerged in an ocean of Aether just like a fish is submerged in a body of water. Aether is invisible to the eye just like water is invisible to the fish. Although the fish cannot see the water, the water has an influence on the fish. And likewise, the Aether has an influence on us and everything around us.

To further empower your perception of this concept, it is important to add that Aether and space are not the same thing. Aether is the substance, while space is a volume of Aether. There is no such thing as space without Aether. Without Aether, there is only a void, which has no distance or time and is the only true vacuum.

Aether is the massless source potential for all electricity and magnetism. It is the precursor of 100% of every known force including gravity, which is the effect of the Aether imparting a resistive push on mass.

You may have heard that “Nothing can travel faster than the speed of light.” That really means nothing with mass can travel faster than the speed of light through the Aether under normal circumstances. Since the Aether is free of mass, it can “travel” at the speed of light or faster. That means that it is able to be superluminal (faster than light speed) or extraluminal (instantaneous or outside of the speed of light).

There are some beliefs that the Aether had mass and Tesla may have believed this. This does not make it true, but this is a highly credible opinion on the matter but there are a few simple arguments against Aether with mass that you are encouraged to consider. (The comments on the New Tesla Electromagnetics Part I: Discrepancies in Present EM Theory by Tom Bearden is worth reading.

The Aether is also estimated to be at various densities. We'll quote a paragraph from the following reference: J. A.

Wheeler and C. <http://www.cheniere.org/books/newteslaem/22discrepancies.htm>
Misner,

Geometrodynamics, Academic Press, New York, 1962<sup>2</sup>.

"The enormous factor from nuclear densities ~ 10<sup>14</sup> g/cm<sup>3</sup> to the density of field fluctuation energy in the vacuum, ~ 10<sup>94</sup> g/cm<sup>3</sup>, argues that elementary particles represent a percentage-wise almost completely negligible change in the locally violent conditions that characterize the vacuum.

Basically, the density of nuclear matter is so low compared to the Aether that it is statistically insignificant for all practical purposes. The density of the aether is so high that in one cubic cm of space, there is more potential energy than in all the observable physical mass in the entire universe. Keep in mind that mass is not energy and we'll cover this later.

Being that the density of the Aether is exponentially higher than nuclear matter, which of course has mass, if the Aether had even the smallest fractional mass, it seems reasonable to deduce that that one cubic cm of space would instantly have gravity that is so strong that it would swallow our entire universe.

If Aether had mass, it also seems reasonable to suggest that this would cause so much drag on the Earth spinning in space that it would bring it to a standstill from the mass on mass resistance. And if Aether had mass, how is it that an object in space can maintain a constant velocity without requiring work to keep it moving?

It can be a long argument that gets quite technical but suffice to say, there are arguments for both and at this time, The Hacking the Aether Model sides with a massless Aether.

Aether is also the source of our life force. Since ancient times, this healing and spiritual energy has been referred to by many names such as qi, ki, prana, life force, spirit, and Breath of Life. It is even the potential used by our minds to form coherent thoughts.

We receive Aether through our food, we breathe it in the air, we drink it in our water and it soaks into every fiber of our being from the environment. The more alive our food is, the more electrochemical potential differences there are in the food, which in turn tap the Aether. The Aetheric potential itself is not contained in the food, the food is structured at the cellular, molecular, atomic and subatomic levels to create potential differences that allow the Aether to enter at those points of potential difference.

Now, does this Aether actually even exist, is it only theoretical or philosophical, or has it been proven wrong?

In other words elementary particles do not form a really basic starting point for the description of nature. Instead, they represent a first order correction to vacuum physics. That vacuum, that zero order state of affairs, with its enormous densities of virtual photons and virtual positive-negative pairs and virtual wormholes, has to be described properly before one has a fundamental starting point for a proper perturbation theoretic analysis."

"My opinion about Miller's experiments is the following. ... Should the positive result be confirmed, then the special theory of relativity and with it the general theory of relativity, in its current form, would be invalid. Experimentum summus iudex. Only the equivalence of inertia and gravitation would remain, however, they would have to lead to a significantly different theory." — Albert Einstein, in a letter to Edwin E. Slosson, 8 July 1925 (from copy in Hebrew University Archive, Jerusalem).

"I believe that I have really found the relationship between gravitation and electricity, assuming that the Miller experiments are based on a fundamental error. Otherwise, the whole relativity theory collapses like a house of cards." ~ Albert Einstein, in a letter to Robert Millikan, June 1921 (in Clark 1971, p.328)

In 1887, Albert Michelson and Edward Morley conducted a famous experiment that was claimed to have disproven the existence of the Aether.

But did they really? Let's look at a basic definition of the Michelson-Morley experiment:

"The Michelson–Morley experiment was performed in 1887 by Albert Michelson and Edward Morley at what is now Case Western Reserve University in Cleveland, Ohio. It was aimed at detecting the relative motion of matter through the stationary luminiferous aether ("aether wind").

The negative results are generally considered to be the first strong evidence against the then prevalent aether theory, and initiated a line of research that eventually led to special relativity, in which the stationary aether concept has no role. The experiment has also been referred to as "the moving- off point for the theoretical aspects of the Second Scientific Revolution. Michelson-Morley type experiments have been repeated many times with steadily increasing accuracy. These include experiments from 1902 to 1905, and a series of experiments in the 1920s. In addition, recent resonator experiments have confirmed the absence of any aether wind at the  $10^{-17}$  level."

Ever since, mainstream science uses that experiment to "prove" there is no Aether but it only demonstrates ignorance of the historical facts.

There is one paper that is a must read for any intellectually honest person who can admit that the mainstream story against the Aether could be false. It is Dayton Miller's Ether-Drift, Experiments: A Fresh Look by James DeMeo, Ph.D., which spells out much of the chronology and other historical facts that the Orwellian history rewriters deleted from the textbooks. (www.orgonelab.org/miller.htm)

And for further research on the Aether, visit ~ <http://allais.maurice.free.fr/English/Science.htm>

These resources are somewhat technical but even if you're non-technical, you can get the general gist of what is going on that portrays the sequence of historical events as they actually happened and not how mainstream academia has distorted them.

Look at the following quotes (right) and keep in mind that Dayton Miller's experiments were found to be accurate.

"The effect [of ether-drift] has persisted throughout. After considering all the possible sources of error, there always remained a positive effect." — Dayton Miller (1928, p.399)

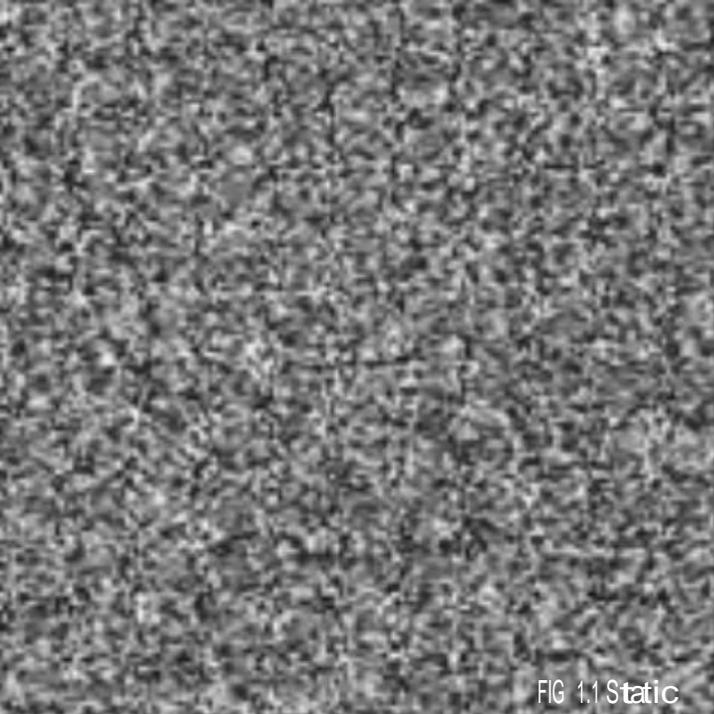

FIG 1.1 Static

Mainstream physics is deathly afraid of admitting Dayton Miller's experiments have actually overturned Einstein's Relativity over 80 years ago - and he's not the only one!

And another fact that they will never tell you is that Michelson & Morley originally did actually produce a positive "anomalous" deviation from the predicted results showing there is an Aether. Is mainstream science honest enough to discuss this? No.

You'll be able to see much of the agenda that Einstein had in order to preserve his own flawed theories while maintaining his position in the limelight as the poster child for genius.

Please notice the quote at the beginning of this chapter. Einstein did at one time admit there not only might be but must be an Aether. One of his earliest papers was that of an elastic Aether, but he failed to recognize that the Aether is capable of performing work.

Let's summarize a bit before we go on. The idea of the Aether existed for many ages. Various experiments found positive evidence of the Aether. Michelson-Morley becomes the default experiment that conventional scientists' ideomotor response keeps pulling them back to. Dayton Miller's experiments showed there is Aether. And, Michelson himself amongst many others wound up validating Dayton Miller's findings as well. Einstein even admitted there must be an Aether. And in Einstein's last days, he admits that he doesn't have any confidence that any of his concepts will hold water and isn't even sure he was on the right track. In brief, Dayton Miller has been proven right about the Aether and Einstein finally winds up admitting that he has no faith in his own ideas.

"You imagine that I look back on my life's work with calm satisfaction. But from nearby it looks quite different. There is not a single concept of which I am convinced that it will stand firm, and I feel uncertain whether I am in general on the right track." — Albert Einstein, on his 70th birthday, in a letter to Maurice Solovine, 28 March 1949 (in B. Hoffman Albert Einstein: Creator and Rebel 1972, p.328)

So let's get to the nature of the Aether...

When Aether is not interacting with mass for example, such as in far outer space, it is in its unorganized and chaotic state; it is like the static on a television station that has gone off the air.

It is both chaotic and orderly at the exact same time. This is the paradox of reality. There is an obvious bubbling chaos going about, while simultaneously, the overall big picture is that there is an evenness or order to the general homogeneity of it.

This image (top left corner) represents this concept with something most people can relate to.

Now if this chaotic television signal was purposely modified so that there is some asymmetry to it, a form would manifest on the screen. That is taking something chaotic and then ordering it.

Likewise, if we are able to organize or polarize the Aether so that it is no longer chaotic, we can cause it to perform work since it has become ordered, formed or asymmetrical. That way, we can get it to move in a specific direction to cause a specific action since it is focused so to speak.

The point of the Murakami's Unified Field Model is not to have you memorizing vocabulary which accomplishes little. Instead, the point is to share concepts that are easy to internalize so you can "grok" the matter.

The Aether connects the dots and this is the point of Hacking the Aether. The Aether ties together gravity, inertia, electricity and other natural phenomena that are veiled under an unnecessary shroud of mysticism or scientific complexity.

Thankfully, we are now in the age of understanding that allows us to tap the Aether with full conscious competence in order to create energy technologies that work in harmony with nature.

A very important piece of work necessary to understand the real physics of the aether is by J.J. Thomson called Electricity and Matter. He is the man responsible for discovering the electron so perhaps it is important to hear what he has to say about the Aether.

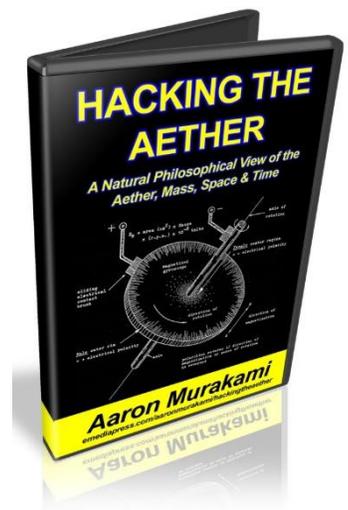

<https://archive.org/details/electricityandma00thomia>

The problem is that J.J. Thomson's equations are very convoluted because he uses one letter to represent one thing and uses the same letter to represent something entirely different elsewhere. There is no continuity to his writings, but for the first time in history, Eric Dollard has brought clarity to what J.J. Thomson was really up to and this is the essential foundation for being able to directly engineer the Aether. <http://powerofaether.com>

When the general paradigm of the masses finally evolves and transforms to this understanding, we will be on our way to unlimited clean energy. This is the next giant leap for mankind that will allow us to get one step closer to joining the rest of the universe.

Hacking the Aether is a unified field theory that links gravity, space, time, electricity and other natural principles together in a seamless manner that shows that Free Energy is not only possible, but a requirement for any system that is built according to some very simple principles.

Man, machine and the matrix

With the amount of enlightenment that is coming through on this earth at this time, is it leading us to better understand the fundamental forces which bring everything forth.

All the elements are created by the same force.

Pressure and heat are the prime movers of all things - man, machine and the matrix. There is an excitation that evolves all things.

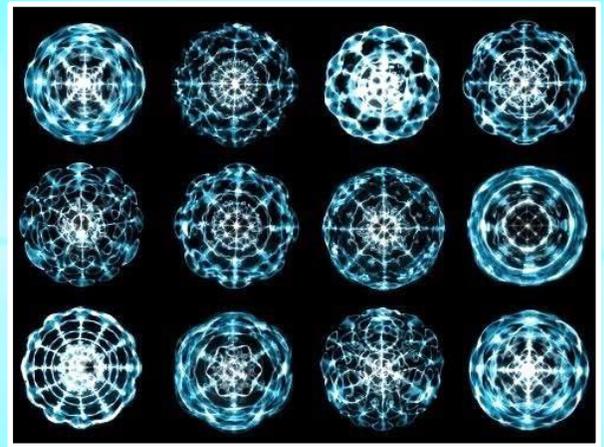

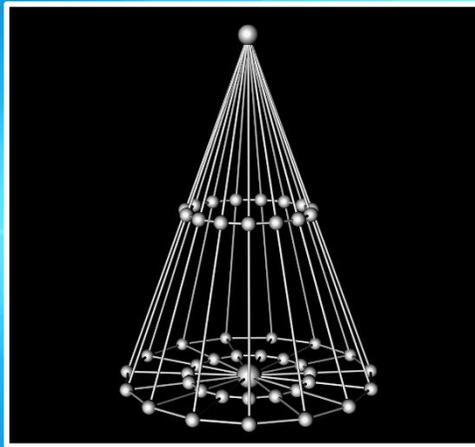

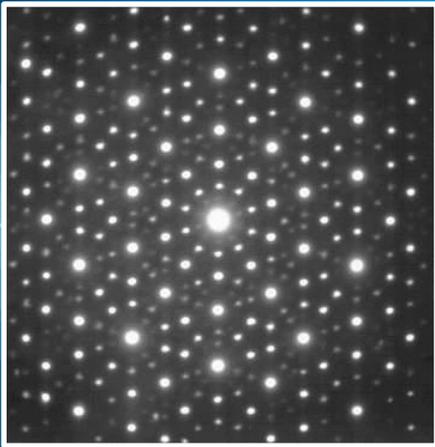

Through the dance of molecules that jitterbug, they are flowing and spinning as they change polarities.

What is the medium that is a constant, aether.

This dynamic matrix of etheric energy passes through us, abounds in us and moves matter — man and machine. It directs the moving of energy both mentally and physically.

Inherent in all matter is form and functions. Its forms and informs us as to its purpose.

Karen Elkins

Chemistry is the word we use to describe atoms configuring themselves into a structure of light particles, a vibrational expression. The living light matrix consists of chemistry, math, physics, and biology undivided.

All matter cycles, and recycles from this luminous aether.

What is the mechanics that makes it work?

Motion and vortexes of a golden mean.

Man and metal both go through alchemic processes.

Our “fixed” nature is only transmuted by the heat of chemistry and hence with it comes this morphing of change.

This propels the elemental into another dimension. This also induces the polarity changes that take place.

All is part of this living and dynamic equation moved by the matrix as we see it as the manifestation of the electro-magnetic and gravitational principles.

EZ Water: Water has three phases – gas, liquid, and solid; but findings from our laboratory imply the presence of a surprisingly extensive fourth phase that occurs at interfaces. The formal name for this fourth phase is exclusion-zone water, aka EZ water. This finding may have profound implication for chemistry, physics, and biology.

Gerald Pollack maintains an active laboratory at the University of Washington in Seattle. He is the Founding Editor-in-Chief of WATER: A Multidisciplinary Research Journal; Executive Director of the Institute for Venture Science; co-founder of 4th-Phase Inc.; and founder of the Annual Conference on the Physics, Chemistry, and Biology of Water. # Why We Understand So Little About Water

Water is central to life — so central that Albert Szent-Györgyi, the father of modern biochemistry, once opined: “Life is water dancing to the tune of solids.” Without that dance, there could be no life.

You might find it hard to believe, but few scientists study water. Most scientists presume, as do lay people, that everything about this common substance must already be known — so where’s the scientific challenge? Better to pursue some trendy area like molecular biology or nanoscience rather than plunge into boring water.

Scientists shun water for a second reason. Water seems to have acquired a rather mystical character. Ancient religious gurus felt certain that water was endowed with exotic healing powers. Think of “holy water.” This mystical tinge makes water research a potentially risky business: an exotic finding may be viewed as the work of the devil, rather than as the work of science. Better to avoid the risk of condemnation.

By Dr. Gerald Pollack

Excerpts from “The Fourth Phase of Water”

Microscopic Water Images Courtesy of Georg Schroecker

We began by asking a simple question:

why do exclusion zones exclude?

The more we looked, the more we found. Finally, there emerged four general principles, and various insights, which you have encountered scattered throughout the book.

Seeing how far those principles can take us is a temptation to which I have admittedly succumbed. I originally intended to include material on physics and biology in this book, but readers of preliminary drafts prevailed on me to stick to water's chemistry. However, the principles elaborated here extend naturally into other scientific domains; therefore, I plan to follow up with additional books. There is much to say, particularly about physics and biology.

The key to making progress in all of these arenas must include a fresh willingness to admit that the emperor has no clothes. Even the greatest of scientific heroes might have erred. Those scientists were human: they ate the same kinds of food we eat, enjoyed the same passions we enjoy, and suffered the same frailties to which we are prone. Their ideas are not necessarily infallible. It might seem irreverent, but if we hope to penetrate toward ground truth, we need the courage to question any and all foundational assumptions, especially those that seem vulnerable. Otherwise, we risk condemning ourselves to perpetual ignorance.

Consider, there are at least four factors bear responsibility for the painfully slow emergence of new principles:

(i) the blighted history of the water field has kept scientists away;

(ii) water is so common that everyone presumes that the fundamentals have been resolved;

(iii) deviating from mainstream views can be unsettling;

(iv) questioning the prevailing wisdom has always been a risky business, in science as elsewhere.

These obstacles have combined to produce a long-term stall. I am trying my best to crank up that stalled engine.

The structure of the EZ is more like the n-type, with excess electrons borne by oxygen atoms. - Dr. Gerard Pollack

How does the EZ construction process begin?

Hydrophilic surfaces generally contain oxygen atoms, and one possibility is that those surface-oxygen atoms form a template. If enough of those atoms' positions correspond to the positions of oxygen atoms on the EZ honeycomb, then the surface itself could be thought of as the first EZ plane.

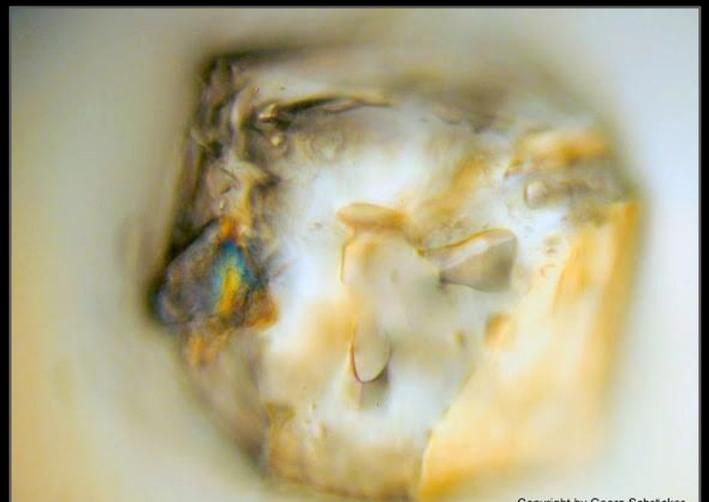

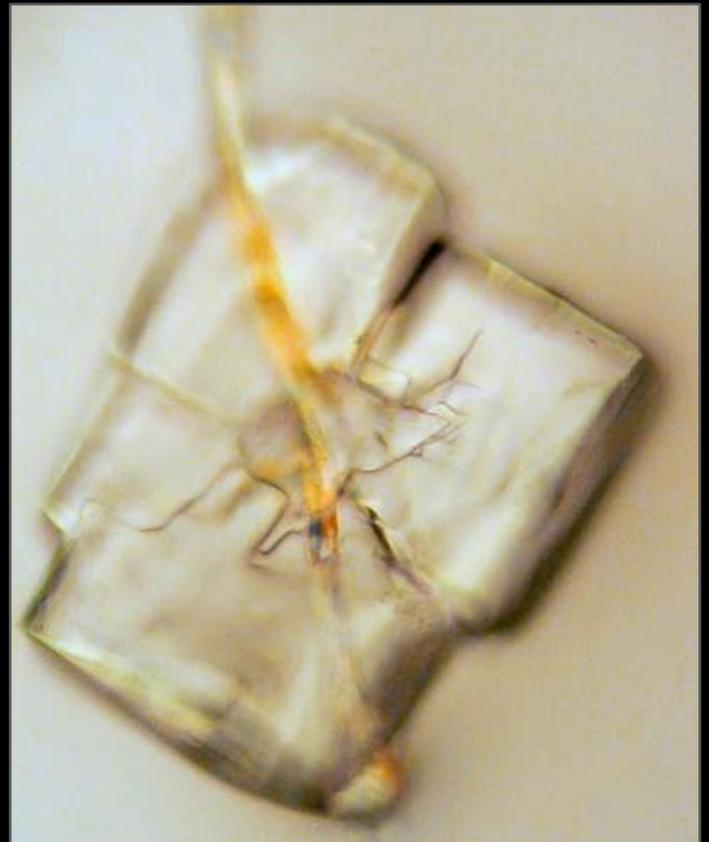

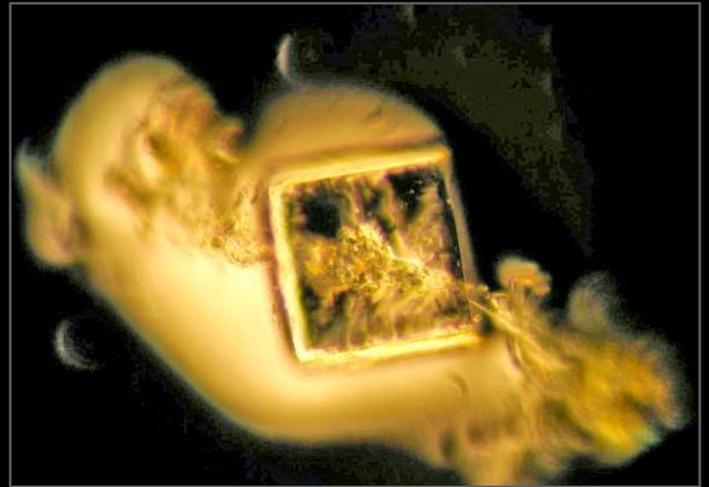

Additional planes would then easily stack from that template plane. Of course, no material surface provides a perfect match. Surfaces differ as to atomic arrangements and may have difference negatively charged atoms instead of oxygen. Some surfaces might therefore prove less adept at nucleating EZ layers; they would be considered less hydrophilic.

Batteries Made From Water

The skies above unleash a flash of lightning, discharging hundreds of thousands of volts of raw energy to the earth's surface. Those lightning strikes occur so frequently around the world that, according to atmospheric scientists, the earth's surface cannot dissipate the accumulating negative charge, leaving it electrically negative. Standing on the ground, your nose is about 200 volts more positive than your toes.

While lightning and its electrical consequences are not the subjects of this chapter, charge definitely is. Like clouds, EZs contain concentrated electrical charges. Those charges carry potential energy, just like the thundercloud's charges. And the consequences can be equally impressive. - Chapter 5

Consider biology. Charged entities such as membranes, proteins, and DNA all interface with water; exclusion zones should appear in abundance. Those EZs bear charge, means they carry electrical potential energy. Since nature rarely discards available potential energy, EZ charge may be used to drive diverse cellular processes ranging from chemical reactions all the way to fluid flows. Opportunities abound.

Energy Drives Ordering

The separated charge provides the energy that drives the ordered crystal formation, here by the like-likes-like attraction. Thus, the energetics powering the formation of salt and sugar crystals may operate much like the energetics involved in the formation of EZ and ice.

Energy drives ordering.

This same principle may also hold for metals. Common metals exhibit atomic crystallinity. When heated to melting, metals become more amorphous. The question arises whether the radiant input used for melting provides the energy needed to fuel recrystallization, as in salt and sugar crystals. If so, then the same thermodynamic principle could remain applicable:

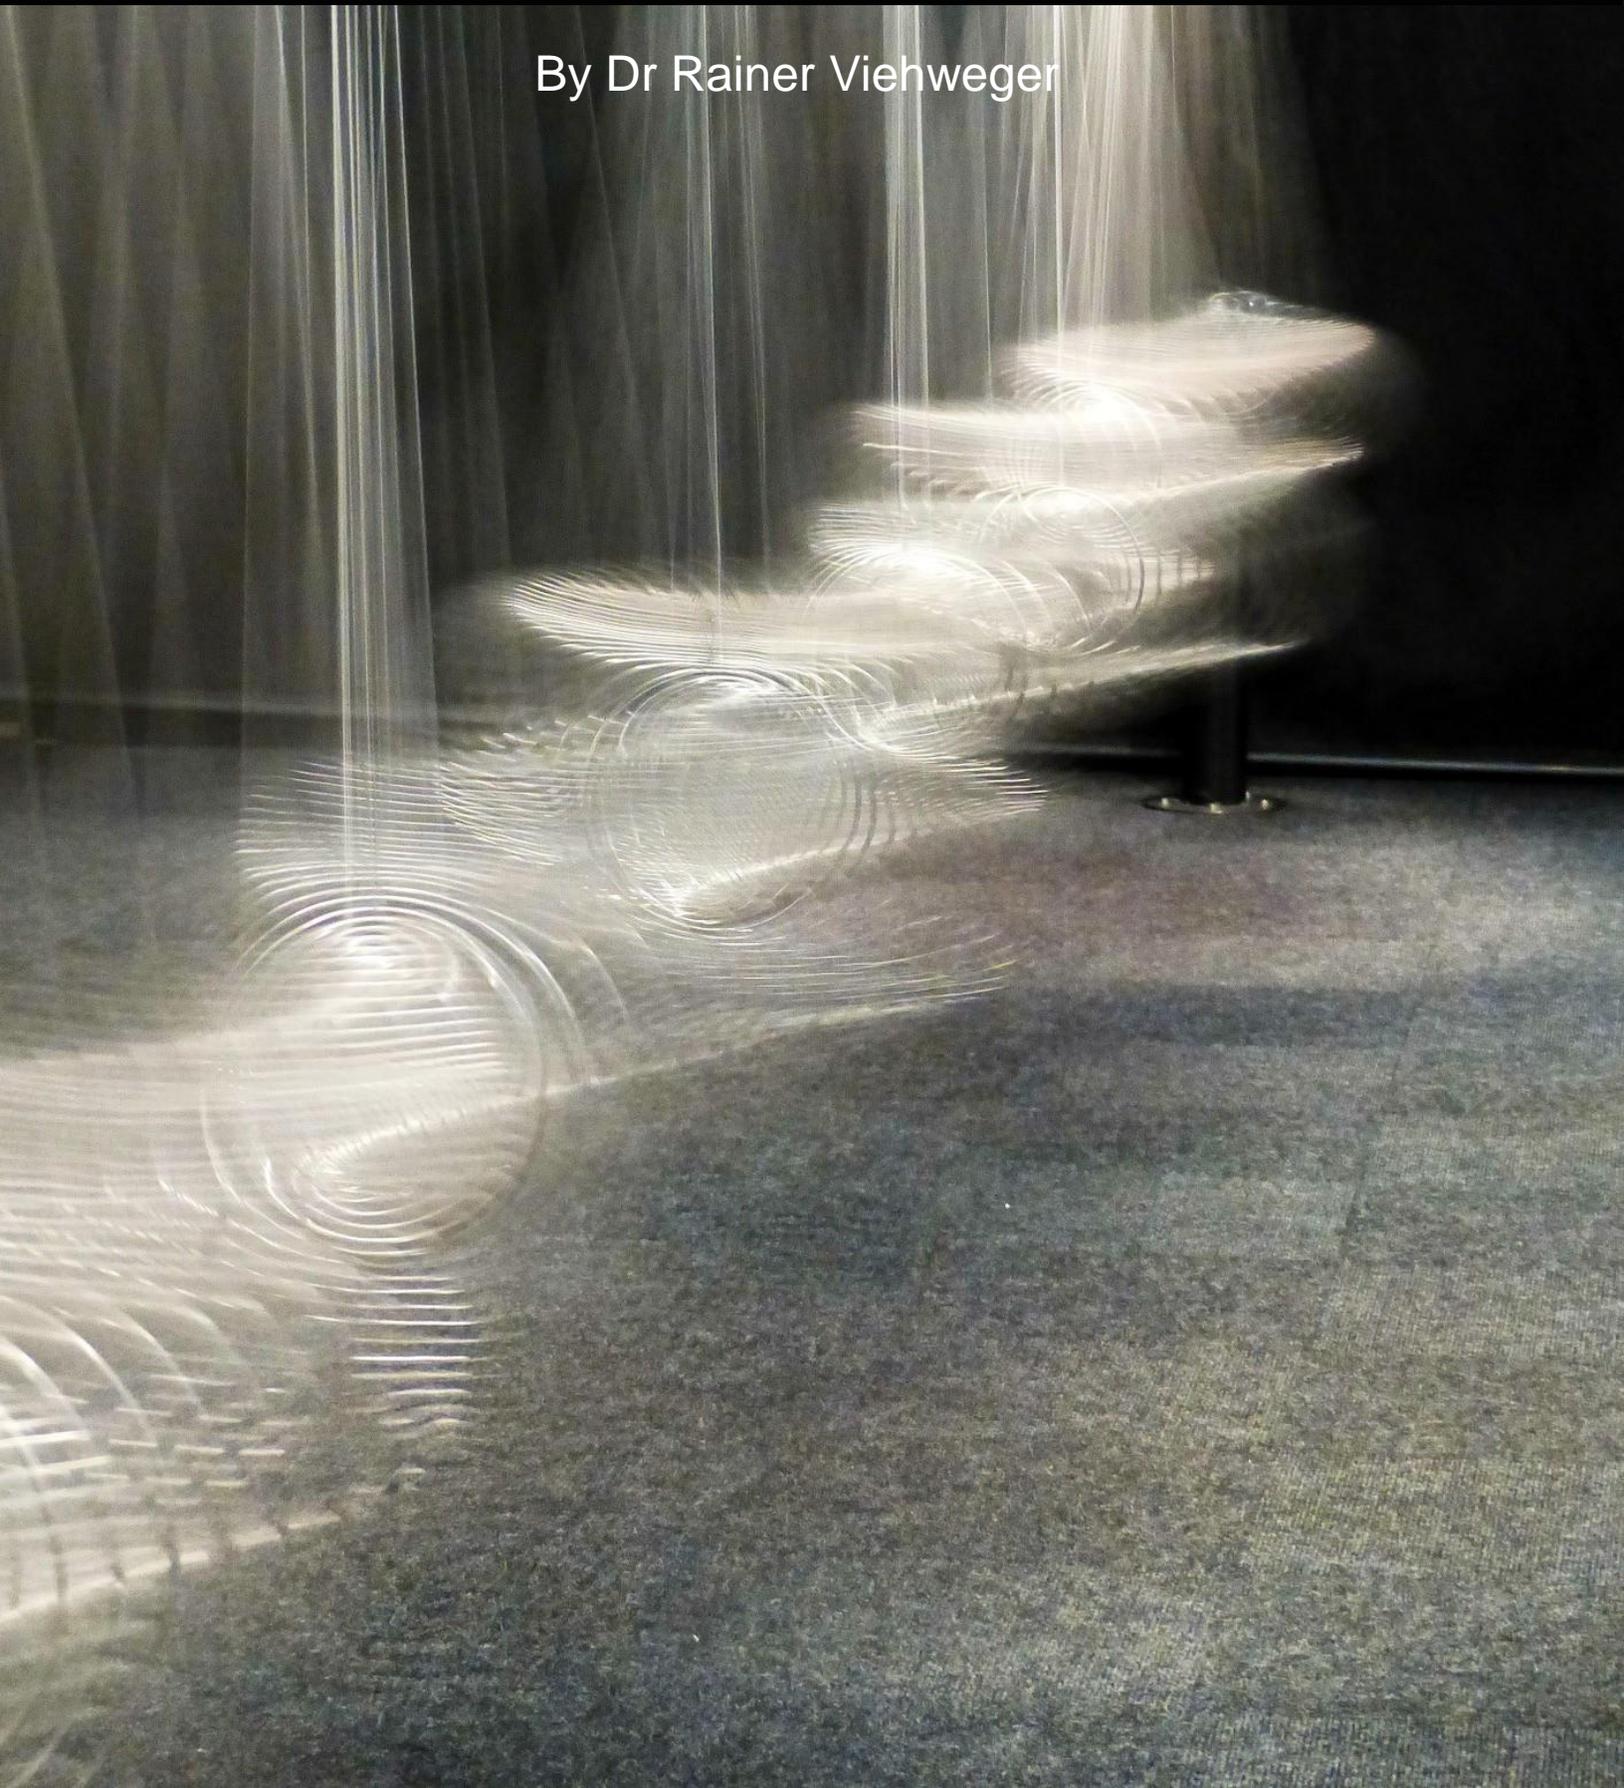

ordering requires energy.

Ice formation does require energy; it exploits the potential energy of charge separation which is delivered as the positive proton charges combine with the negative EZ to build crystalline ice. Hence the energetics of ice-formation match the energetics of EZ buildup. Both processes require energy.

COMMUNICATION & COOPERATION IN NATURE

By Dr Rainer Viehweger

Scaling is a natural phenomenon

which describes the organization of matter and the characteristics of natural processes. The spectrum of proton resonances is at the core of the Global Scaling phenomenon.

Global Scaling is a natural phenomenon and is often not visible if we do not know about its existence. The German Hartmut Müller developed the theory of Global Scaling in the 80s of the last century while he was working in the Leningrad during the former Soviet times to describe the phenomenon scientifically. Global Scaling means the logarithmic scale-invariant, fractal and hyperbolic structure of our world. It explains the distribution of all matter in the universe.

What is the reason for the Global Scaling phenomenon?

Swinging, vibrating, oscillating is the most effective way to move. It needs least energy to keep moving. How do systems swing most easily? The most effective, the easiest way of swinging are the natural oscillations ("Eigen"-oscillations) of swinging systems. We should imagine the universe as a system of coupled oscillators. Lots of energy move through this universe, get modified, never can be lost, and are always changed from one form of energy into another. Everything is possible. But the natural oscillations on the lowest energy level of matter with the running of time become the ones to create long lasting processes like structures in space and time. We talk, for example, about such structures in space and time like atoms, molecules, crystals, cells, organisms, populations, information amounts, civilizations, moons, planets, stars and galaxies.

By Twisp [Public domain], from Wikimedia Commons

On a logarithmic scale, our universe has dimensional borders: there is the smallest dimension of quants as there is the so called Planck, the smallest wavelength known to the physical universe. The other dimension is at the site of bigger structures than mega galaxies, the biggest is the size of the universe itself. There exists mathematical work on this, but it would lead too far to talk about this here. We have to fix that the universe has dimensional borders in the logarithmic world, where waves are reflected. Repeated reflections of waves lead to a system of standing waves with a certain pattern when it is swinging on the lowest energy level. We find the basic standing waves in it and all related harmonics, which are always created in nature when a sound or an oscillation occurs. This system of standing waves is a harmonic, the same as the harmony laws in music and in the cosmic harmony of Kepler.

The spectrum of the standing wave system on its lowest energy level is a logarithmic one. It is fractal and hyperbolic. Scaling is a basic property of fractal processes. The logarithm is the natural logarithm, discovered by Leonhard Euler. In the spectrum we find places with constant changes, where matter, energy or information get compressed or decompressed. The spectrum is, in every dimension, self-similar, and it has gaps, where there is nothing. To transfer such a standing wave system into our visible world, it must be calibrated with the natural oscillation of the proton. Why? The natural oscillation of the proton is the most stable existing vibration in the universe. It is always there, for eternity. We can say so, because the life time of a proton is at least  $10^{32}$  years.

Fractal & Logarithmic scale

The electron is the second one, which is living for a very long time, but when we look at its mass, it is 1836 times lighter than the proton, so – on the lowest energy level - it is always moving; the proton is leading it.

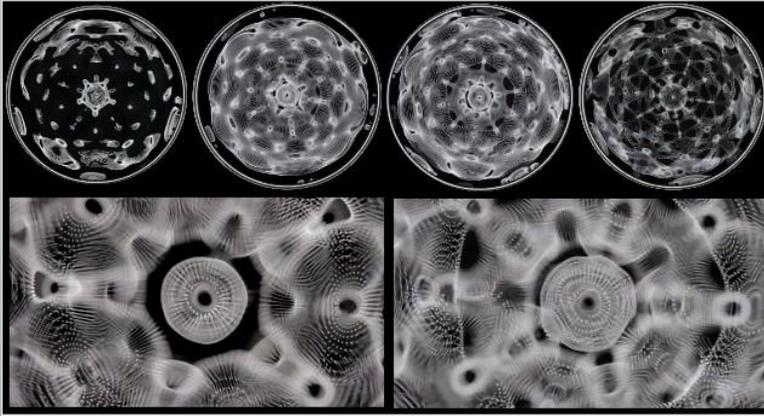

Now it is possible to look, how structures or patterns as the phenotype of the universe, we find in our visible material world in space and time, are related to the genotype of our universe via the resonance to the natural oscillations of the proton. This is the most important thing in the understanding and the practical usage of Global Scaling for our every days life, but it is also of fundamental importance for creating new knowledge in the today's scientific world to prepare for today's and tomorrow's needs.

With Global Scaling, we learn about the intelligence of nature how to use energy most effectively. The intelligence is to be found in the natural oscillations of the protons, of which every matter in the world is consisting, including our bodies.

The state of our health and wellbeing is depending on the information patterns of our body to use its energy most effectively. Evolution has given us the present of our highly organized body with huge possibilities to move, think and act in the world that is amazing. The fundamental information pattern – the rule of its order must be the Global Scaling pattern, because it provides a long, intelligent and easy way of life. Health care, medical research and future therapies should include the knowledge of Global Scaling into life, because we are learning about ourselves. We will find the basics of our identity, and we will find ourselves in a harmonious interconnection with our inner and outer near and far environment.

Heart resonance ~ Mereon matrix

Elements of the Mereon Matrix made visible for the first time on the CymaScope instrument

Cymatics

The biology of our body follows Global Scaling. As an example, we could look at the heart rate. When we are resting, our heart beats 67 times per minute. We can see this rhythm in a node area of the spectrum of the proton resonances. This means the heart needs least energy for beating. If necessary, the heart can beat faster or slower. Both possibilities need more energy, but they are important for adapting to different conditions of life. The possibility of adaptation is well known as the heart rate variability (HRV).

Dr. Rainer Viehweger studied medicine at the Szent-Györgyi-Albert Medical University in Hungary. He qualified as an orthopedic surgeon at the famous Berlin Humboldt University. He also trained in acupuncture, chiropractics and many other complementary methods which include magnetic field therapies, Scenar, myofascial Trigger shock wave therapy, Psychosomatic Energy and assessing and treating the informational body field.

As part of his long quest to find new ways of dealing with chronic pain syndromes, he found out about the Global Scaling Theory in 2003. He took a postgraduate course at Dr. Hartmut Müller's Research Institute in 2006. Besides his work of teaching practitioners and doing R&D he still runs a holistic medical practice where he applies the principles of the New Physics. He also devotes some time to spread knowledge about scaling so that it can be used in more areas of life as the principle of communication and cooperation. Dr. Viehweger has published numerous articles about both conventional and complementary medicine and a book, Understanding the Universe through Global Scaling, that discusses the physics of the organization of matter with applications to health and biology.

BEST SELLERS Bedini SG

Bedini SG – Beyond the Advanced Handbook by Peter Lindemann – This is the first time John Bedini's 1984 Kromrey Generator has been publicly demonstrated ever and the meters showed that the output was 200% compared to the input.

MADE IN U.S.A.

bedini RPX™

The BEDINI RPX SIDEBAND GENERATOR™ is one of the few devices available to the public that creates the “Rife Frequencies” in the same way that Rife originally conceived.

Many devices available that claim to be “Rife Machines” are simply signal generators and that is it. With the Bedini RPX, a signal generator is used, but it is only one part of several components required to get it right. When audio signals from a function generator are mixed with the high frequency carrier produced in the Bedini RPX unit, they combine to create what are known as sidebands. These frequencies automatically sweep through a wide range and hit every “Rife Frequency” even if those exact frequencies are unknown to the user. And, it happens without having to program in any particular frequency!

Visit our website and watch the free videos on the page so you can see what these sideband frequencies look like and why they do indeed match what Rife himself was creating.

The Bedini RPX is also the least expensive unit available that truly replicates the brilliant work of Royal Raymond Rife. Full systems (combos) and wholesale discounts are now available.

DVD PRESENTATION

Over three decades of research, John Bedini answers all these questions, and more, in this newly released DVD and booklet.

What were the electromagnetic principles of the machines that they so famously built? Why have so many so-called replications failed or fallen short?

In this newly released DVD and booklet Bedini walks us through his initial introduction and instruction in the Rife technologies. John goes through both the deliberate and often inadvertent obfuscation of what Rife's frequencies were, and how they were propagated. His circuits, charts and notes are shared with readers and spectators as he lays out in meticulous detail what Rife and Prioré accomplished in the past. John Bedini has finally solved the puzzle.

The book and DVD also discusses John's explanation of the fresh wrinkles that Prioré independently added to the Rife methodology. He brilliantly adds a new layer to the whole process that not only eliminates many of the past inaccuracies, but also locks down an entirely new paradigm for successful application in the field. And we get to look over his shoulder as he shows on the Spectrum Analyzer and on the bench exactly what he is doing, and why. Plus we get an explanation of John's new invention that elegantly incorporates all of his research in this area

This information was first introduced at John's keynote lecture at the 2016 Energy Science and Technology Conference in Hayden, Idaho, to a very excited audience. Considering the history, mystery and suppression of this topic, John had to smirk when an anonymous source passed him a note afterwards which simply said "YOU GOT IT."

<http://www.bedinirpxbook.com>

Royal Raymond Rife and Antoine Prioré are two names from the past, steeped in mystery, folklore, truths, half-truths, and inaccuracies.

Both the inventors, and the development of their inventions, were sponsored and financed by elite financial interests. These sponsors included; the Premier of France, who opened Prioré's research facility, and the Timken roller bearing family members, who financed Rife.

Both the Rife machine, Rife microscope and the Prioré machine appeared to have stunningly successful results. It was not fully understood how or why they accomplished such results till now.

Lakhovsky

MULTIWAVE OSCILLATOR

It's about time someone brought this technology into the modern age and there is nobody more qualified than this team of engineers!

The Lakhovsky MWO remained a mystery until about 10 years ago because nobody actually knew what circuit he was using. Some originals were found crated up and they were reverse engineered and turned out to be quite different from Lakhovsky's patent drawings.

This is one of the most desired high frequency and high voltage machines ever created and only a few companies are manufacturing them according to Lakhovsky's actual design.

In Europe, you can find them from $15,000 to $25,000 USD – they are very expensive because they are built like replicas of the early 1900's units for those that want the old look.

The only company in the United States making them puts them in a wooden box so it is not shielded and creates a massive amount of interference.

All the “MWOs” that uses plasma tubes, ignition coils and other output methods are not true to the original Lakhovsky design.

Our pulse modulator can be used to power Tesla Coils for regular experimentation, you can use this unit if you want to replicate Eric Dollard's Cosmic Induction Generator invention, etc. This unit is truly UNIVERSAL and we are the only ones that are offering this!

If the US Navy, Bell Labs and Western Electric combined their talents to build a Lakhovsky MWO, then this is what you would wind up with – a compact, highly shielded, low loss and high power output unit that is practically military spec. There is no comparison anywhere in the world, not even close.

The antennae are precisely measured to spec and are works of art!

We are constantly updating the design so that the longevity and quality continue to improve - most of these modification are invisible to the user, but it is important to us that any possible enhancement that adds to the experience of the user will be passed on at no extra charge.

a bit about the unit we are making available in limited quantities at this time

Paul Babcock is also on the team of consultants who has assisted in the testing procedure and we have verified that the waveform that our MWO units produce is 100% identical to Georges Lakhovsky! He was the first one of our associates to build a MWO from scratch based on the real circuit used by Georges Lakhovsky.

Paul Babcock got us on the right track,
Peter Lindemann contributed to the design,
Eric showed up and the rest is history.

We will continue to make refinements as needed and we are honored to be able to offer this * RARE * machine that was made possible by these engineers who have inspired and helped us with their genius.

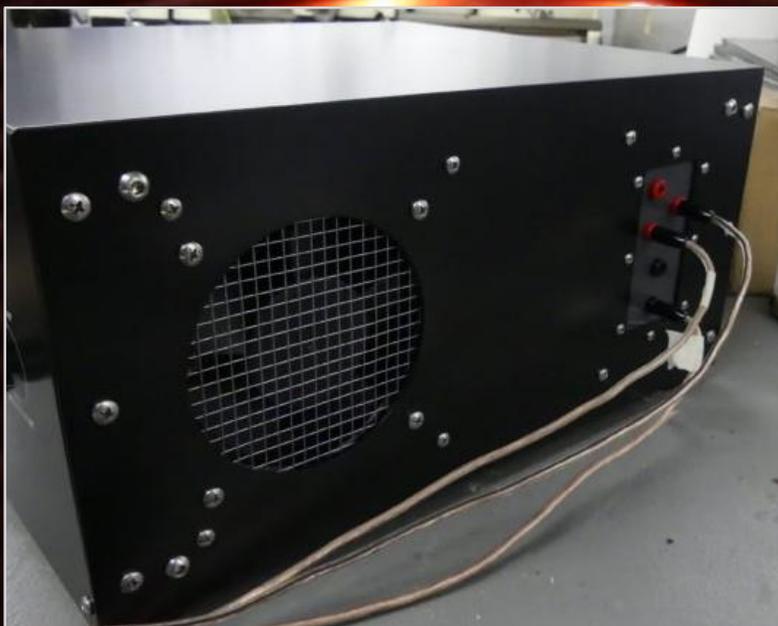

Instead of our units looking like something from the early 1900's, it looks like a modern analog military radio design in a small compact package and it is 100% electrically identical to the Lakhovsky MWO. There is no need for it to come in a case 5 times this size. The Pulse Modulator in the picture on the next page is what we are manufacturing.

The units we are offering you will also NOT have a twist lock plug connection front center as it is not needed, it will have a common trapezoid shaped computer or monitor power supply plug. The left switch is a magnetic-hydraulic circuit breaker that turns on the main power, top center is a dial for the timer and the dial on the right is the VARIAC (Variable AC) dial.

The cases are powder coated (the best kind of painting/finishing method) and silk-screened with white labeling on the front for all dials, etc. along with the name and model of the unit.

You can see on the right side is the spark gap vent and dial to adjust the spark gap.

CHARLES BAGLEY, M.D.

PHYLOGENY, EMBRYOLOGY AND ANATOMY OF THE ACUPUNCTURE MERIDIAN SYSTEM

Buckminster Fuller said nature always finds the most efficient structure. This presentation will outline the underlying geometric structure of the acupuncture meridian system. Energy plays off a structure. This will be more about structure than energy although the Daoist culture that created acupuncture has a lot to say about energy and consciousness. Conventional wisdom has asserted that there is no anatomical basis for acupuncture meridians. They are just some ethereal ancient Chinese “new age” theory. Evidence will be presented to show that not only is there detailed anatomical basis for meridians but the meridian patterns can be traced back at least 500 million years to the origin of vertebrate evolution and possibility beyond vertebrate evolution. The presence of the vertebrate meridian pattern in nonvertebrate animals suggests it may be one of those generic archetypal “efficient structures”. The key to understanding the meridian pattern is recognizing that it is fundamentally vertical parallel lines which intersect horizontally to form a grid. Vertebrate evolution is also based on establishing a vertical body axis (the spine) which is divided into segments that control the horizontal territories in the body. The acupuncture grid follows this horizontal vertical pattern in the anatomy. While this pattern is genetically programmed by genes highly conserved in evolution, this paper will not address the molecular biology and focus on macroscopic anatomical patterns.

Additional evidence of similar meridian patterns in other nonvertebrate animal groups such as arthropods (insects, crustaceans) raises the question of whether meridians are a more generic archetypal life template. Following the meridians back to their early embryological origins raises another question of whether meridians guide embryo formation or are a result of the formative processes. Division of the anatomy into Yang (back, head, skin/outside the body, extensor muscles/sympathetic nervous system function) and Yin (front, internal organs, flexor muscles/parasympathetic nervous system function) divisions confirms the Daoist philosophy that is the basis of the meridian system.

This presentation is tailored to an audience that is not trained in medical school level anatomy.

2017 TESTIMONIALS

MAGNETIZER®

INDUSTRIAL TECHNOLOGIES, INC.

A & P Electronic Media
Authorized Magnetizer Distributor

You can decrease the amount of fuel you burn, soften your water without using expensive softeners, and even reduce your refrigeration bills, amongst other benefits, by using magnets. But like everything else,

YOU HAVE TO DO IT RIGHT!

So, when we use magnets for any of these applications, we use the exact same method that has been proven to work and is used by many companies, universities, and governmental agencies.

All of this is thoroughly documented in Magnet Secrets by Peter Lindemann available here: <http://magnetsecrets.com>

We also have made these magnets available at: MAGNETIZER PRODUCTS The leading magnetic fluid conditioning technology verified by the US Federal Government and used by the military, industry, universities and more. <http://magnetizerproducts.com>

UNCOVERING THE MISSING SECRETS OF MAGNETISM

Ken Wheeler is an expert in Ancient Greek, Pali, & Russian and has worked for various governmental agencies as a translator. He was the founder of a popular website that focused heavily on the teachings and history of Buddhism with a heavy focus on the etymology of its related language. Ken is passionate about learning, exploring and teaching various subjects, especially magnetism. Several years ago, he released a free book called Uncovering the Missing Secrets of Magnetism, which is already in its fourth edition. This work was dedicated to some of Ken's personal friends and associates, but also to those that have paved the way for the electrical sciences with clarity and that includes Tesla, Maxwell, Steinmetz, Heaviside and Eric P. Dollard.

The Hidden Dance - Le Fin de Siècle

By Yaro STANCHAK

The Zero Force Motor, as conceived by the late John Bedini in the mid 1970's and subsequently built by Peter Lindemann (2005) and B. E. Cole (1989), is a very intriguing DC motor that utilizes Air core coils and Neo magnets in contrast to a normal electric motor configuration.

The key elements of the ZFM, as executed by Lindemann and demonstrated at the 2016 and 2017 Conferences, are twin opposing coils, each of about 90 degree arc with an internal four pole iron rotor with four Neo magnets in a N-S-N-S configuration. The motor is energized and controlled by the Bedini Cole Bipolar switch via a timing rotor and reed switches with DC power from a battery or power supply.

The ZFM Presentation video from the 2017 Conference contains the historical evolution and basic design information for replication. Other sources of information are posted on the Energy Science Forum; see www.energyscienceforum.com/showthread.php?t=3384 and www.energyscienceforum.com/showthread.php?t=3909.

The first portion of the 2018 Presentation will explore the inner workings of the ZFM and present results based on experimental observations and data from test work performed over the past year. These results will demonstrate the basic operational characteristics such as speed, voltage, amperage, torque and efficiency of the latest ZFM configuration.

The second portion will delve into the interplay of the developed magnetic fields by presenting, for the first time, the real time behavior of the ZFM coil voltage and current as captured on a Laboratory quality O-scope. The screen shots from the O-scope will certainly pique the interest of the more technically inclined. Another first time revelation will demonstrate, via video of the O-scope screen, the unusual behavior of the voltage and current when the ZFM rotates at specific speeds.

Some of the information presented will verify and replicate portions of the seminal work produced by B.

E. Cole during his period of collaboration with John Bedini in the late 1980's. See the ESF thread John Bedini's Magnetic Model starting with post #13 for more detail.

The last portion will focus on the future direction of the ZFM research, and perhaps point a way to achieve the seemingly unachievable. The current Yaro ZFM iteration will be available for demonstration.

Yaro Stanchak is a retired engineering professional with a lifelong passion for investigation, experimentation and development of interesting concepts. One of the current obsessions is the late John Bedini's Zero Force Motor concept, the replication of which was first presented and demonstrated at the 2017 Energy Conference. Further investigations and experiments into the ZFM are still ongoing, but there are many intriguing results that will be shared and demonstrated during his upcoming talk.

establishment's slogans over time

“The law of conservation of energy forbids that.”

“All that can be done has been done.”

---

As a longtime chronicler of nonconventional energy developments and related adventures and co-author of the forthcoming book Hidden Energy, I always welcome suggestions on how to build such word-bridges. We face walls of disinterest built by a century of repetition of the establishment’s slogans:

“The law of conservation of energy forbids that.”

“All that can be done has been done.”

The next step in teaching potential supporters of the field could be to create paradigm-changing experiments that are portable. Those demonstrations are urgently needed at public gatherings.

The ultimate strategy for public education of course would be a national media event such as celebrities driving nonstop across the continent in a car powered only by a fuel-less invention. That could ignite a grassroots push to “free the energy” of game-changing inventions, if activists grasp the effectiveness of being for something specific rather than just against evils.

In the meantime, how do we rouse people out of their stressed-out stupor? The worldview based on awareness of open-physics concepts and the materialist worldview popularized by consensus science are far apart philosophically. The gulf between them makes the wakeup call difficult for people to hear.

Conventional physicists tend to exude unshakeable confidence in what they teach. However, equally well-educated thinkers who, with an open mind, delve deep into non-conventional research admit that humankind is only beginning to understand how the universe works and what electricity is.

It's challenging to try to educate the public at a time when the new energy scene is in flux and its concepts not published in the mainstream, and its language not standardized.

For example, some of us refer to a new model of the aether and some to zero-point field. Others talk about overunity, scalar, or hyperspace physics. How can we expect the public to refrain from rolling their eyes and walking away?

Engaging a lay person's interest in outside-the-box understandings of science and engineering is not for the faint of heart. Even an engineer who is careful to express new knowledge in conventional language experiences the difficulty. Jonathan Zerbin, CEO of Nonlinear Dynamics Inc., gave me an insight regarding people's resistance to change. He understands multiple viewpoints, having formally studied both engineering and psychology. We were talking about the lack of agreement on terminology within the advanced energy research community, which confuses the public. "People are uncomfortable with ambiguity." Jonathan commented.

That's it. That's the reality we face.

It's helpful to accept people as they are, and meanwhile do what you can to unite fellow researchers into a collaborative organization like other professions enjoy.

Perhaps a new-paradigm trade organization will evolve naturally, with a code of ethics, standardized terminology suggested for important words, and mutual assistance.

reStores cells

Enhances endurance and reverses aging

ASEA REDOX products are the first and only products on the market that contains active redox signaling molecules, cellular messengers vital in protecting, rejuvenating, and restoring cells. These molecules, native to the human body, are created through a groundbreaking, patented process that reorganizes molecules of natural salt and purified water into redox signaling molecules.

ASEA REDOX Cell Signaling Supplement addresses cellular breakdown, starting at the genetic level. This supplement is created using a groundbreaking, patented process that reorganizes molecules of natural salt and purified water into redox signaling molecules and has been scientifically tested and shown to signal the activation of genetic pathways.
